THE COLD LAW.

A New Sersey Community Defeated in an Attempt to Escape Paying a Debt. The supreme court yesterday rendered decisions in several cases in which inhabitants of Bernard township, Somerset county, New Jersey, resist the collection of bonds amounting to $127,000, subscribed in aid of the Passaic Valley and Peafork Railroad company. The municipality set up the defense that the bonds were not sealed. The court holds that, under the circumstances of this case, the bonds must be held to be as valid as if they had actually been sealed before being issued, but, that this decision papelies only to the bonds actually owned by the plaintiff, and not to those transferred to him by the real owners for the purpose of having them sued, where such owners were citizens of the same where such owners were citizens of the same state with the defendant, or where, if citi-zens of other states, the bonds held by them severally amounted to less than $500.

THE CONTINENTALS' FAIR

A Spirited Entertainment in Support of an Energetic Organization. The fair of the Washington Continentals was opened last night at Masonic temple, and in spite of the bad weather the attendance was large. The room presented a gay and protty appearance with its tasteful and elab-orate decorations. The several booths were arranged in tent fashion, and, combined with schemes. A section of the Marine band occupied seats on the overlooking balcony, and rendered appropriate promenade music during the evening.

The fair was formally opened by Judge Lawrence, who delivered a patriotic address, in which he said "every true American citizen will look with gratification and pride on every movement designed to promote the growth, convenience, beauty, and safety of this magnificent capital city of the republic. Its gaia days and occasions of public dispiay should not only be made attractive and grand, but should give evidence of that patriotic spirit which is a laudable characteristic of all our people." He referred to the monument of Washington being erected in this city, and characterized it as a "sky-reaching memorial." He said the history of the world shows the necessity of military organization. The citizens of this republic have served a notice on all outside nations that foreign invaders will be greated with "bloody hands to hospitable graves." After paying a glowing tribute to the Continentals, he declared the fair inaugurated.

The operations of the fair are directed by the following executive committee: Messrs. George F. Timms, Hon, A. M. Capp, John F. Lipphard, Capt, W. W. Mills, C. H. Gonzenbach, B. F. Crawshaw, and Capt. E. F. Vermillion. The booths are in charge of the ladies mentioned in The Rapublican of the code to the most popular lady manager; a gold watch, for the most popular morehant; a parlor heating stove, to be voted to the coldest man in the city; a parlor writing desk, to be voted to a lady; a Webster Unabridged Dictionary and stand for lady public school teacher; Colt's revolver, with appropriate inscription, presented by the Putnan Phalaux, of Hartford, Conn., to be a gold pin for member of the order of Elks; a sword for the most popular officer of the Continentals. In addition to these a Rodgers group, entitled "One More Shot," a gentieman's robe de chambre, valued at $100; a large copper design of a G. A. R. badge for the most popular post, and a music rack, presented by Mrs. M. V. Bennier, embroidered in silk to represent pond filies, to be voted to the most popular lady musician.

The tropical and rare exotic plants with which the hall was decorated were furnished from the executive mansion conservatory.

WANTED TO, BUT COULDN'T. Jury Finds for the Haltimore and Potomac Company and Puts in a Word of Friendly Advice.

The case of Pumphrey vs. the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad company, which has occupied the attention of Justice MacArthur for the past few days, resulted yesterday af-ternoon in a verdict for the company. The pla intiff claimed $30,000 damages for the loss of his right leg, occasioned, as was alleged, through the fault of the defendant. The defendant claimed that it was not liable on account of contributary negligence on the part of the plaintiff. The jury brought in a writof the plaintiff. ten recommendation that when railways are allowed to come into the city they be required to fence the tracks and provide gates at the crossings. Col. Enoch Totten, attorney for the company, said that the company has always been ready and anxious to do so, and had but very recently been able to get the necessary permission from the authorities to erect gates at the crossings.

JUDGE WELDON.

The Friend of Lincoln, Who Succeeds to the Court of Claims Bench. Judge I awrence Weldon, who has just been promenading members of the corps in their continental uniforms, presented ascene of '76. A corps of ladies, with powdered hairs and striking costumes, added to the beauty of the scene, and induced many persons to take chances in the various schemes. A section of the Marine band occupied seats on the overlooking balcony, and rendered appropriate promenade music during the evening. appointed judge of the court of claims to succeed Judge Bancroft Davis, is a pative of Do Witt county, and by his unusual ability as a legal adviser and advocate soon took a stand in the front rank of the profession in southern Illinois, although he was quite a young man. In 1858, during the campaign of Lincoln and Donglas, he took sides with Mr. coin and Douglas, he took sides with Mr. Lincoln, being a staunch republican himself, and worked steadily for his friend Lincoln. In 1861 he was a member of the state legislature, and, when Mr. Lincoln became president, the latter appointed him United States attorney for the southern district of Illinois, which office he held until President Johnson displaced him. He was appointed register in bankruptey shortly afterward, and heid that position until quite recently. Judge Weldon and Hon, David Davis are warm friends. This close friendship first began when Judge Davis was on the bench warm friends. This close friendship first began when Judge Davis was on the beach and Judge Weldon, then a rising young lawyer, pleaded many causes before his court. Judge Weldon is not what is generally termed a politician, but whenever his services have been required for the party he has given them with a will. He is an effective stump speaker and a hard worker. Judge Weldon's position at the bar in his state might be appropriately termed the connecting link be appropriately termed the connecting link between the old lawyers of the Lincoln and Douglas period and the modern or present time. He is married and has two children, a married daughter and a son who has just begun the practice of law. His wealth is sufficient to allow him to abstain from enforced work. He is a man of fine appearance, and his elequence, wit, legal attainments, and conversational powers will not only make him a favorite in legal but also in social circles.

PURLOINING LETTERS.

A City Postoffice Clerk Arrested for Rob bing the Mail.

Postmaster Conger has had a suspicion for ome time that some one was robbing registered letters in the city postoffice, and wishing to ascertain who the thief was, called on Inspector Henderson to ferret out the guilty Inspector Henderson to ferret out the guilty party. Mr. Henderson put one of his men on guard, and it was only a short time before he had good reason to suspect a clerk named Joseph McCoy. His vigilance was rewarded yesterday afternoon by detecting McCoy in the act of secreting a registered letter about his person. The officer telephoned to police headquarters for a detective, and Detectives Block, Edelin, and Cox responded. McCoy showed fight, and made a futile attempt to chew and swallow the letter. He was arrested and taken low the letter. He was arrested and taken before Commissioner Mills, who bound him over for a hearing to-day at noon, the bond being fixed at $2,000. Being unable to fur-nish this he was locked up at the Twelfth street police station.

The letter taken was addressed to an Indian agent, and contained a $10 note and a $5 gold piece. McCoy has been employed in the postoffice here for several years, and it is believed by the postoffice authorities that he has been pillering from registered letters for some time nast. some time past.

THE STEVENS SCHOOL.

Report of the Building Inspector and His Recommendations Thereto.

The report of Building Inspector Entwisle ings yesterday in the courts.

Court in General Term—Chof Justice Cartler, Justices Cox, and James—Marshall vs. Main; decree of the special term reversed, and, upon the tender by complaintant to the defendant, Mollie M. Main, of $200, less cents, said Mollie M. Main, of the fact that it is constained by him in 1879. The deflection of the floors and roof near the center of the building is due to the shrinkage of the wood of which the interior partitions are made. The exterior walls show no signs of sagging or sottling, but, on the contrary, are stronger now than when first built. The front porch is sound, though the stops are decayed sufficiently to require reconstructing. The venctual should be remedied. The inspector thinks it unwise to build a new structure. He recommends that the interior walls shall be con-structed of brick, and four brick ventilating shafts be introduced. He also recommends the addition of a stair hall on each side of the building, with fireproof stairways of ample dimensions, and the removal present wooden stairways from the halls and
